Art Unit: 1795

1. Applicant's election with traverse of Group I in the reply filed on 30 March 2010 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the grounds that the two groups have the same technical feature. This is not found persuasive because as set forth in the 15 January 2010 lack of unity requirement, because there are prior art references that meet the claimed subject matter of Group I, then the special technical feature in claim 1 does not contribute over the art and holding of lack of unity is proper.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

2. Claims 12-21 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim.

3. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: page 12, line 21, the sigma symbol is incorrect and page 12, lines 23 and 33, the double "i" is incorrect in the formula as is the "O<sub>i</sub>2". Page 13, lines 8 and 28; page 14, lines 4 and 31; page 15, lines 7, 14, 33, 34; the sigma symbol is incorrect. Page 16, lines 12-13, many of the compounds set forth are incorrect. The formula in line 1 on page 25 is in error. The sigma symbol in line 13 on page 25; page 31, line 10; page 32, line 9 and page 33, line 2 is incorrect. The formula in line 28 on page 28 is in error as is the formula on page 31, line 5. Applicant should carefully and completely review the entire specification for similar and additional errors and correct the same.

Art Unit: 1795

Appropriate correction is required.

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by either Inda-US 2004/0106046 ('046).

Art Unit: 1795

6. Claims 1-4, 6-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Inda et al.-US 2003/0224244. ('244)

In '244, a solid electrolyte thin plate composed of the same material as applicant's claim 9 is set forth in paragraph 22 along with Examples 1 and 2 and thus meets applicant's claims 1-4, 8, 9 (Paragraphs 17 and 26 recite the claimed conductivity). The said electrolyte is free of an organic substance because a binder is not required-see paragraph 22 in '046. The solid electrolyte is also free of an electrolytic solution. Example 2 of '244 sets forth the claimed thickness of the electrolyte.

7. Claims 1-4, 6, 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Fu-US 6,485,622. (Fu)

Reference is made to the Abstract to Fu which teaches a solid electrolyte thin plate composed of a similar material as applicant's claim 9 as set forth in column 4, lines 45-51 and thus meets applicant's claims 1-4 (Example 1 recites the claimed conductivity). The said electrolyte is free of an organic substance because a binder is not required. The solid electrolyte is also free of an electrolytic solution.

8. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which

said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

9. Claims 10, 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fu.

The only claimed features not taught by Fu are the specific amounts of the compounds in the solid electrolyte. It would have been obvious to have selected the amounts in the teaching of Fu within the range claimed by applicant because the same would allow for higher conductivity of the solid electrolyte.

10. Claims 10 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over either '046 or '244, each taken in view of Fu.

The only claimed features not taught by either '046 or '244 are the specific amounts of the compounds in the solid electrolyte. It would have been obvious to have selected the amounts of the compounds as shown in the teaching of Fu and use the same in either '046 or '244 within the range claimed by applicant because the same would allow for higher conductivity of the solid electrolyte.
